

Top Tips for University

It's a good idea to plan ahead.

Make sure your UCAS application shows that you have a medical condition by ticking the "Disability" box.

Apply to your uni for exam adjustment arrangements to be in place.

This will help you get any necessary support needed. For example, extra time in exams.

Contact the Disability Services Team at your uni to find out what you need to do.

You can apply for Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA)

This will help with

Financial Support

towards extra costs you may have, because of a long term illness while you are at university.

For example, a mini fridge to store your insulin and any other requirements for things that may support you.

You do not need to pay back DSA.

Don't forget about Student Support Services within the University, if you feel your diabetes management is impacting your studies.
